THE LANDS IN HARTFORD

AMONG THE SETTLERS

HARTFORD
CONNECTICUT HISTORICAL SOCIETY

INTRODUCTION.

The English settlement of Hartford, Conn., was made by settlers from "the New Towne," now Cambridge, Mass. As early as 1633 the region was visited by a few adventurers and traders from the Bay. In 1635 a settlement was begun at "Newtowne," the name being changed to Hartford two years later. The great exodus hither was in the spring of 1636, when the settlement was firmly established by the coming of the Rev. Thomas Hooker and his party. About that time the lands were purchased by the settlers from the Indians. A confirmatory deed given in 1670, the original deed having been lost, states that it was given to "Mr. Samuel Stone and Mr. William Goodwin, in the behalfe of the present proprietors and owners of the lands belonging to the township of Hartford."

The proportional ownership of these lands, as stated at a meeting of the Proprietors in February 1671/2, was "according to the rate for diuifsion of lands agreed upon & entered In the Town book dated 3d Janur 1639" [i.e. 1639/40], "according to which proportion they payd for the purchafs of the Sayd lands." The proportions of these Proprietors varied from one hundred sixty acres for John Haynes down to six for William Pratt and others. In addition to these were a number of settlers who were "Granted lotts to haue onely at The Townes Courtesie," sometimes spoken of as proprietors by courtesy, whose proportions were from six to three acres each.

The township was divided into two parts by the "riveret" which flowed eastward and emptied into the Connecticut river. In consequence each "side" seems to have been, in the early days, more or less distinct from the other, and to have maintained to some extent a separate organization for the first few years after the settlement began. Separate meetings of the two "sides" were held. There was a "north side book," in which matters pertaining to that "side" were entered; and, by inference, a similar south side book. Divisions or grants of lands were made separately by the inhabitants of either "side" up to January 7, 1639/40, when such action for the future was forbidden by vote of the town. It seems more than probable that some record of these divisions was entered in the respective "side" books at the time of making the grants. Neither of the two "side" record books are now known to be in existence.

Upon coming into the New England wilderness the English settlers were obliged to devise and establish for themselves a new system of land records, from the fact that they were the first and original owners to parcel out the land from the great undivided tract of which it formed a part.

Each person who received individual parcels of land when a division or allotment was made wished to assure himself of his title to ownership. This could not be done by the passing of a deed, as would have been the case in his native England, for, as he had not received or purchased the parcels allotted to him in a division from any individual, there was no person from whom he could receive a deed. In consequence came the law that individual owners should make public record of the land owned by them, a proceeding practically unknown in the ownership and transfer of lands in England at that time.

The General Court of Connecticut, at its session in October, 1639, passed the following in regard to the recording of land:

"The Townes of Hartford, Windsore and Wethersfield, or any other of the Townes within this jurisdiction, shall each of them haue power to dispose of their own lands vndisposed of, and all other comodityes arysing out of their owne lymitts bounded out by the Court, the libertyes of the great River excepted, ...

"The Townes aforesayd shall each of them p^r^vide a Ledger Booke, with an Index or alphabett vnto the same: Also shall choose one who shall be a Towne Clerke or Register, who shall before the Generall Court in Aprill next, record every man's house and land already graunted and measured out to him, with the bounds & quantity of the same, and whosoever shall neglect 3 monthes after notice given to bring into the sayd Towne Clerke or Register a note of his house and land, with the bounds and quantity of the same, by the nearest estimacon, shall forfeit 10s. and soe 10s. a month for every month he shall soe neglect. The like to be done for all land hereafter graunted and measured to any;[1] and all bargaines or mortgages of land whatsoever shall be accounted of noe value vntill they be recorded, for wch entry the Register shall receaue 6d. for every parcell, delivering every owner a coppy of the same vnder his hand, whereof 4d. shall be for himselfe and 2d. for the Secretary of the Court. And the sayd Register shall every Generall Court, in Aprill and September, deliver into the same a transcript fayrely written of all such graunts, bargaines or ingagements recorded by him in the Towne Booke, and the Secretary of the Court shall record it in a booke fayrely written p^r^vided for that purpose, and shall preserve the coppy brought in vnder the hand of the Towne Clerke. Also the sayd Towne Clerke shall haue for every serch of a parcell 1d. and for every coppy of a parcell ijd; and a coppy of the same vnder the hands of the sayd Register or Towne Clerke and two of the men chosen to governe the Towne, shall be a sufficient evidence to all that haue the same".[2]

Similar provisions are found in the Code of 1650, with slightly different wording, with the substitution of "September" for "April," and with the insertion where reference is made to "ye printed books" of the following:

"And if any such Graunter, being required by the Grauntee, his Heires or Assignes, to make an Acknowledgm^t^ of any Graunt, Sale, Bargaine or Morgage by him made, shall refuse so to doe, it shall bee in the power of any Magistrate to send for the partye so refusing and committ him to prison without Bayle or Maineprise, vntil hee shall acknowledge the same: And the Grauntee is to Enter his Caution with the Recorder, and this shall saue his interest in the meane time.[3]"

It is of interest to note the gradual changes in the method of recording a transfer of land as they appear in this volume. At first there was the simple entry of a parcel of land when it was brought in for record; and if later it was sold, a memorandum to that effect made on the margin of the page where the land had been recorded was the only public record of the transfer. But later came a paragraph entry stating, perhaps over the hands of an Assistant, a Townsman and the Register, that a certain parcel of land had been sold by one person to another and that a deed of sale had been given. And still later came the custom, continued to the present time, of entering the deed in full on the record book.

The volume herewith printed consists of, or rather should consist of, 292 folios which now measure 11⅜ inches in height by 7½ inches in width. Long usage has worn a small fraction of an inch from the exposed edges of these folios. At the time the volume was treated by the Emery Patent Silk or Tissue Process and rebound a few years since, the first five and the last original folios were missing and their place is supplied by a copy in the handwriting of the late Nathaniel Goodwin; probably made about 1839. Since the work of preparing the copy for the printer was begun these six missing folios have been found laid away with other valuable papers in an inner recess of the safe in the town clerk's office.

Beginning at the front of the volume, the pages containing records of land have been somewhat irregularly numbered as follows: 1-289, 300-411, 452-465, 465-504, 506-547, 547-557, 557-567, 567, 566-588, 588-593. The pagination of the first part of the volume is in the handwriting of John Steele; pages 511 to 542 in that of William Andrewes, and the remainder of the land records in that of [3] Colonial Records of Connecticut, I, 552.

John Allyn. Reversing the volume, the vital records beginning at the other end of the book cover pages 1-33, which have been numbered in a modern hand. Then comes the record of strays filling the next two unnumbered pages (34, 35) and extending onto the two succeeding pages (36, 37), which are identical with pages 592, 593. The vital records and other records at that end of the volume were entered by the respective town clerks, from John Steele down to a time later than the entries of land records in the volume. As each entry contains a date, it has not seemed that any advantage would accrue by noting in the printed book in whose handwriting the different entries of vital records appeared.

The records of lands in the volume are entered in seven different handwritings, including those of the first five registers or town clerks in Hartford, whose terms of service are included within the period of time covered by the volume. These registers, with the dates when each was chosen or elected to the office, are as follows:

John Steele, chosen November 16, 1639.
William Andrewes, chosen January 12, 1651/2.
John Allyn, chosen April 11, 1659.
Richard Lord, chosen December 23, 1696.
Hezekiah Willis, chosen December 25, 1705.

Although John Steele was the official register of lands from 1639 to 1652, less than half of the entries made during those years are in his distinctive and rather cramped handwriting. All of the parcels of land recorded to Benjamin Munn, and the first part or earliest of those recorded to thirteen other owners, all entered on the early pages of the book, are written with blue ink in one distinctive handwriting, and are without question the earliest entries made in the volume. The name of this first recorder is unknown.

The second actual recorder, like the first, made his entries in the volume during the period in which John Steele was the official register or town clerk. All or the first part of the entries of every man's land (except the few made by the first recorder) which have the heading dated February 1639, as well as two which (probably by a slip of the recorder's pen) are dated February 1640, are in the handwriting of this second recorder. His identity, like that of the first recorder, is unknown. He wrote with ease, and evidently enjoyed seeing his work elaborated occasionally with an ornamental flourish. About the middle of the volume the style of his handwriting changes. Less care and fewer flourishes mark his later writing.

Few of the records made in the volume by John Steele himself bear a date. The great majority of his entries are of later parcels of land, to persons who had already had some of their lands recorded in the handwriting of a previous recorder. In a few instances when making these additional entries Steele has inserted a date: twice in the year 1650 and six times in 1651. Where Steele began the entries of a man's land, using some variation of the accustomed formula "Land in Hartford upon Connecticut river belonging to," etc., he sometimes inserted a date. These dates indicate that the entries were made by him in the following years: one in 1640, two in 1644, one in 1645, three in 1646, two in 1648, two in 1649, six in 1650, and six in 1651. From this it seems probable that the entries made under Steele's direction by the first two unknown recorders comprised all the land immediately brought in for record under the order of the General Court of October 1639, all of which are entered under the date of February 1639 [1639/40]; while the entries actually made by Steele himself are of those parcels brought in for record at a later date, either through neglect to at once obey the Court's order, or by reason of their being received at some later distribution no record of which exists.

In order that the reader of the printed volume may know approximately the time when the record of each man's land was entered in the original record book, footnotes have been added, telling in whose handwriting each paragraph of the original entries appear. This partially makes up for the omission of the date of nearly every entry of record by the various registers beginning with Steele. After the unknown first and second recorders, Andrewes alone was particular as to dating the time of most of his entries of record.

There is no title page or official designation for the volume now under consideration. When it was rebound a few years since it was lettered "Town Lands Births Marriages & Deaths Town of Hartford 1639-1764." The binding then removed, which may have been put on about 1840, was lettered "Original Distribution of the Town of Hartford among the Settlers, 1639."

The vital records in this volume were first printed in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, vols. 12, 13. Some inaccuracies, both of errors and omissions, appear in that printing which have been corrected in this volume. In a few instances words, letters, or figures now missing in the original entry of a vital record have been supplied in brackets from the Register. And in a few instances words or letters now missing from the original entries of record of lands have been supplied, also in brackets, from a copy in the town clerk's office made about 1890.

The earliest volume of Colony Land Records in the Secretary's office in which, according to order of the General Court, are entered the earliest distributions of the lands in Hartford, Windsor and Wethersfield, is separated into several sections. Each town's lands constitute a section, each section having a separate pagination and index. The Hartford section is divided into two parts, each separately paged and indexed; and the two parts are made up of the owners of land on the two sides of the little river or riveret. The first part, although not expressly so stated, comprises the lands owned by residents on the north side of the little river; and the second part, as is stated in the general heading for that part, comprises the lands owned by residents on the south side of the little river. This volume is mostly in the handwriting of Thomas Welles.

The second volume, although paged continuously throughout, is really separated into several parts by the insertion of indices. The first part, consisting of ninety pages, contains only records of lands in Hartford; the second part contains records of lands in Windsor and Fairfield, among which a few records of Hartford lands are interspersed. The greater part of this volume is in the handwriting of William Andrewes.

In order to show at a glance something of the order in which the Hartford lands were recorded on the Secretary's books, the indices of the Hartford landholders as found in the "Colonial Land Records," volumes 1 and 2, are here given.

The old style of reckoning of time, making the year begin on March 25, is used in this record. Consequently all dates from January 1 to March 24, inclusive, are reckoned as of the previous year. Thus the date of February 1639 under which many of the entries are made would be February 1640, according to our present method of reckoning time. The double dating, in which the year of both the old and present methods of reckoning is given, occurs frequently.

The Society is enabled to issue this volume through the courtesy of its Vice-President, James Junius Goodwin of Hartford, who generously offered to defray the expense of its publication.

The editor wishes to express his appreciation of courtesies shown him during the progress of this work by Town Clerk Henry A. Smith and his assistants.

[1] The modern copy of this page now bound in the original volume contains the words here "and swamp"; but there is not space for them unless they were interlined, and they are not in the Secretary's record.

[2] The words "on rood" are not in the modern copy now bound in the original volume; but they are in the Secretary's record, and the space indicates that they belong in this record.

[3] The modern copy now bound in the original volume says "George Steel's," which must be an error. The Secretary's record says "George Wyllfes," and doubtless is correct.

[1] The first five parcels are in the handwriting of the first recorder, the sixth in that of the second recorder, the seventh and eighth in that of John Steele, and the remainder in that of John Allyn. The first, four and the sixth to ninth parcels are entered in the Secretary's record vol. 1, part 2, page 3.

[2] The Secretary's record says "South."

[3] The Secretary's record says "to the fforty acres on the North." Judging from the parts of letters remaining on the original, this is probably the true reading.

[8] One parsell lijng in Hockanum containing by es[tima]tion twenty five akers, one rood, & twenty parches more or les, abutting on the great river, on t[he] west, & on the lande now comon, on the East,[1] & on m^r^ whytings land, on the South, & on m^r^: webbsters land, on the North,

[1] The east boundary is left blank in the Secretary's record.

[2] The location is not given in the Secretary's record.

[3] The Secretary's record inserts here "of meadow."

[4] Presumably the reading was "by estimation."

[5] The Secretary's record says "weſt."

[6] These six words are so much worn away in the original that their reading is uncertain. The Secretary's record says "and his owne on the weſt."

[7] This paragraph is omitted from the copied page in the original volume, and the missing words and letters have been supplied from the Secretary's record.

It has sometimes been called that of the regicide of the same name; but he was executed in 1660. It is quite possible that its writer was a relative of the regicide; but if so the relationship between them is unknown.
